

Armenian Church Outburst A Review Game/R&R Break for All Grades

For those of you who know the board game Outburst! this fun review game won't need explaining. For the rest of you, here's the premise: Divide your class into two teams. The good thing about this game is the team acts as a group, so knowledge is shared and no one has to feel "stupid." Then take turns by asking the team, as a whole, to provide ten answers to the questions you pose. They should simply call out the answers without consulting one another. They get a point for every answer that matches your ten. (By the way, even a good answer that is not on your list cannot earn a point.) The team with the most points wins. Enjoy!
