

SECOND PALM SUNDAY

This Sunday has been given the designation 'Second Palm Sunday' based on the readings for the day. Beginning with New Sunday, the Armenian Church reads from the four Gospels every day in their proper order, and in that order the sections relating to Christ's entry into Jerusalem, as described in the four Gospels, coincides with today, the seventh Sunday of Easter-tide.

SPIRITUAL THOUGHT

The true believer continues to trust God, even when all roads appear closed; hopes, even when the situation seems hopeless; sees, even when everything is dark; is steadfast, even when everyone calls for retreat; gives hope, even when others hopelessly retreat; and continues to ferociously fight against Satan, even when other men run away wounded.

UNDERSTANDING LATER

Second Palm Sunday | Gospel Reading: John 12:12-23

Has there ever been a time when you were told to do something and you did not understand why? This happens often in the Bible. God tells people to do certain things and people do not understand. Sometimes they ask, but God does not give an answer at that moment, but later on, they understand.

This is what happens in today's Gospel reading. The disciples did not understand what was going on when Jesus entered Jerusalem on the donkey. They thought that Jesus was coming into Jerusalem to establish a new kingdom and overthrow the Roman Empire. And when they did not see Him doing this, they did not understand what was happening.

This is why St. John the Evangelist tells us that the disciples did not understand but later, when Jesus was glorified, they remembered all these things and that all these things were written (John 12:16).

Often in our lives we are told to do things that we may not understand at that moment. There are times that God tells us and moves us to do things and we want to know why. We may question it and say, "It doesn't make any sense." However, we must have trust in God that whatever He asks us to do, He is doing it for our own good.

God never asks us to do bad things, but everything He asks us to do is for His glory and so that people realize how powerful God is and come to Him in faith.

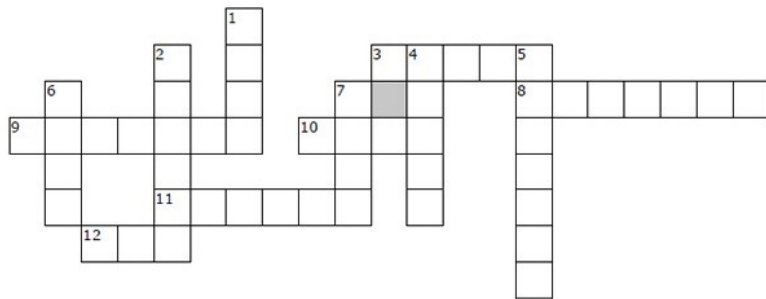

What are some things you think God is asking you to do that you don't understand? Is there anything that God has put on your heart to do and you think that you may need an explanation before you do it? If so, pray and seek God's guidance and wisdom in your life and then listen with your heart to His voice.
